DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 5-15 and 27-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over

Gustin et al. (U.S. 5,897,625) in view of Conklin et al. (U.S. 6,141,653)

Gustin et al. disclose system and method of purchasing a money order including the steps of: contacting a remote site for said money order system by said buyer with a computing device; transmitting information to said money order system via the remote site to purchase said money order for said sale of said goods, said information including at least said buyer's identification, an identification of said seller and a financial amount for the money order and printing in an automated manner a money order (steps of figs. 8, 18B, 19D, 19E, and 20-22; col.8, line 34-col.12, line 64).

However, Gustin et al fails to disclose a payment method via the use of an Internet auction site.

Conducting business over the Internet is notorious well known in the business art and in e-commerce. The benefits of using Internet are many, for example, cost-effective, time saving, streamlines communication, simplifies business processes. There are well over hundreds of auction sites over the Internet.

Art Unit: 3628

Conklin et al. is applied for showing that it is well known in the art to use an Internet auction site to facilitate payments of the purchased of goods from an Internet auction site (abstract; claims 1-48). It would have been obvious at the time of the invention was made to use the Internet to effectively and securely automate the business process of Gustin's payment system to serve customers better and gain more competitive advantages.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 5-15 and 27-34 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
